

I am the greatest...Yep, that's right...I am the greatest! I light up the room when I walk in. People love to see my great BIG smile. I am generous, loving, and caring...and because I treat others so well, they always treat me well. When I walk into the room, I am confident... and the courageousness in me floods the room. I roar like a lion because I love so deeply. Therefore, others love me deeply in return. I am never prideful, yet always proud of who I am. My mistakes and past failures made me into the beautiful person that I am today. My past is of no regret because it does not reflect the person in who I am today. I am strong, confident, and courageous. I am beautifully and wonderfully made. I am God's masterpiece. This world is beautiful, and I am a beautiful part of it. I am not too tall, nor too short. I am not too fat, nor too skinny. I am just perfect. God knew what he was doing when he created me. He created perfection. I am perfect because God does not make mistakes nor junk. He created me in his image, and in his image, I will remain. It does not matter what the world says about me because I am not of this world; rather, I am just in it. I am of God's Kingdom, and I act as such. I am his masterpiece. I am loveable, honorable, and powerful. God has instilled his power and love within me, and I fully accept the responsibility to embrace it. I am a Warrior. I get things done when they need to get done. Fear? What's that! I laugh in the face of fear. Fear bows down to me...I never bow down to fear. Fear is of Satan and has no place in my heart nor in my head. I dance with my fears, all the while smirking at Satan because his plan will not conquer me. God's will for my life will conquer me. I live for God's plan and laugh at the fact that Satan thinks he can have his way in my life. God is the only one that has a place in my life. I am bold and beautiful. I am secure in God's love, mercy, and grace. I am smart, an encourager, and a redeemer. I am alive through the blood of Jesus Christ. I am long-suffering, for I know that God is bringing the blessings my way through my suffering. God has blessed me beyond measure and is continuously blessing me beyond my imagination. I can do anything and everything through Christ who strengthens me. I am wise and knowledgeable. I am stable and secure. Stability consumes me. I am humble. I am a giver. I give because I love to give, and I get back much more than I give. I am complete. I am completely wrapped in God's love. Even in the darkest times, I know that I am loved and God is holding me. I am his and he is mine. I am patient. I am a light to this world. I always let my light shine wherever I go. Nobody intimidates me because I am just as good as any other person that walks this earth. Today is the day that matters. Yesterday? What's that? I grow and become stronger with each and every day. I am a conqueror and a leader. I am compassionate and a servant to God and his children. I am not my emotions nor my past. My who is not my do. I always pick myself back up when I fall down. I persevere. I see things through until the end. Giving up? What's that? I am a successor...and a brave one at that. I am significant. I love God because he first loved me. Because he first loved me, I am free to love me. Because I love me, I know how to love others, and because I love others, they too love me. I am worthy and interesting. I am a ruler and free. I am free from all of the enemy's bonds. Nothing will ever keep me down. I see the finish line and sprint right through it. My life is glorious, and I embrace all of life's challenges because I know that Satan will never win in my life. God is the only winner and the only one I diligently seek. He is my cornerstone. When I am weak, I turn to God, and he breathes his strength back into my every vein. I am merciful and show grace to others, and therefore I too receive mercy and grace. I am never intimidated because I am perfect just the way that I am. I embrace my past because it is a part of my testimony. It is the beginning to the end of one of the greatest testimony that will touch and inspire many lives. God does not use the perfect...yet it is the imperfections that he makes shine. I shine as bright as the brightest star on the darkest night. I am somebody! I am special! I was created for a purpose. I light up the room when I walk in and am never intimidated, and everyone loves me and my BIG smile! I am indeed the greatest!
